Need for Speed: Hot Pursuit System Requirements PC / Windows 7 FASTEST CAR: This is the car that you want to get in a race with. If you don't like it, you can change it before starting to race. There are lots of different cars in the game. Most of them are real, and they all look great. In the normal Need for Speed game, you play in cars from the 50's. In the Hot Pursuit game, you play in cars from the 80's. Hot Pursuit adds a Police Drone, and a helicopter. Car: On the HUD, you can find the car name, speed, and year. The car is separate from the player. You can change the car name. You can change the car and then exit the car. There are a lot of different cars in the game. I've tested all of them. License Plate: On the game map, the license plates have names, and you must put it in the correct place. If you can't find the place, you can use the camera to get a better view. When you get into the back of the car, you can see the license plate. If you can't find the license plate, there is a button on the bottom of the map. When you are in the car, you can change the license plate. You can change the license plate while you are in the car, and you will be able to exit the car with the new plate. Seatbelt: You can buckle and unbuckle the seatbelt. There is a two-point seatbelt if you have a lap belt or a three-point if you have a shoulder belt. When you start a race, you will be in a random race car. If you don't like the car, you can exit the race car, and select another one. Stereo System: The stereo system doesn't work in the normal Need for Speed game. On the Hot Pursuit map, there are some speaker pads. You must place the speakers on them. If you place the speakers the wrong way, you will hear a warning message. If you want to listen to the audio, you can use the in-car radio. It's not a real stereo system. There is only one speaker. In-car Radio: In the normal Need for Speed game, the radio is an add-on
