Unique row IDs in an object I have an array of objects and I want to compare each object to the objects before and after it, giving me the index position of each object and its neighbors in a linked list. Is there any way to avoid creating a new object for each index? A: The array is ordered with indices, so you can: - push() the object to the beginning - pop() the object from the end - shift() - unshift() - shiftRight() and unshiftRight() To keep the indices, you can use an object as a template (use index 0 instead of 'index') and then apply push()/pop()/shift() to it: var array = [[1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7], [7, 3, 5, 1, 2, 4, 6], [2, 5, 1, 4, 6, 7, 3], [3, 6, 7, 4, 5, 2, 1]]; var template = Object.create(array[0] = {}, {}); template[0] = {};
