A: I suspect that is a typical thing when using other O.S.es - where the store probably can't release a copy of the app they are unable to test themselves. What you could do is (a) make sure your apps store is showing the correct app and (b) install the new app. When you launch the application you will get a message that it is not currently available on your current O.S. If this doesn't work, can you run your anti-virus program and get it to run an additional scan for potentially infected objects before installing (if the app is 6d1f23a050
